Northumberland's newest training organisation needed a whole raft of specialist IT services when they made the decision to launch their new venture.

Yasmin Milburn of QDL turned to BACK Consulting Limited to take care of their requirements in a "cradle to grave" support agreement. BACK were engaged to provide everything from a corporate website to enterprise email, document collaboration tools and marketing materials.

"QDL turned to BACK as they came highly recommended by other customers and that was important to us. We gave them a briefing into what we thought we needed and got some great practical orientated advice that helped us make more progress than we thought we could afford. The help was really friendly and delivered in a timely way which meant we had one one less thing to worry about." said Yasmin.

"If you're looking for a partner to get you ahead with IT you shouldn't look any further than BACK. We were so impressed with their work they are now delivering training to our customers and gaining rave reviews. Trust is important to us and we feel very safe in the hands of BACK."
